

EU Constitution Part 1: Sovereignty. Summary

The EU Constitution is a summary of the six EU treaties the Queen has signed since 1973; most of it is already implemented. Rejection by the voters of France and Holland has not slowed it's progress. We may have two years before a minor substitute seventh and final treaty appears, which can be signed without our consent by the Queen. This Constitution will then be fully implemented. Unlike the other six treaties it is in readable English, and reveals the true nature of the EU.

I-6 The EU Constitution and law has primacy over the law of member states.

I-9-2 Accepts the EU Convention on Protection of Human Rights, but not if it affects the EU's powers.

I-10. We start with both EU and national citizenship. Yes, the EU is to be a nation in its own right.

I-12 Member states may not compete with the EU's powers ("competencies").

I-12-2 In shared powers, member nations may not exercise power unless the EU allows it.

I-12-4 The EU has power over defence.

I-13 The EU has absolute power on: customs, rules on the single market, monetary policy, fishing, commerce, and international agreements, eg treaties. (Absolute power = exclusive competencies)

I-15 Members must make their employment, social and economic policies comply with the EU's.

I-16-1 The EU has absolute power over foreign policy, security and defence.

I-16-2 All states shall comply with 16-1. So there are no useful powers left for Westminster.

I-18. If the Constitution forgot powers to achieve its ends, the Council of Ministers can add them.

Westminster will be powerless and pointless, its main aim just to send two Ministers to the EU.

I-19 Institutions: The Council of Ministers ("The Council") controls all EU Parliament legislation.

I-20 Maximum 750 EU MP's, five year term. Minimum 6, maximum 96, per State.

I-21 The EU Council, consisting of Heads of State, shall direct the EU and its foreign policy.

I-23 The Council of Ministers, one per state, shall direct legislative and budgetary functions.

I-26 The EU Commission is the executive.

I-26-7 The Commission has absolute power. It's only accountability is a censure vote from Parliament.

I-27-1 The Council chooses the President of the Commission, parliament merely ratifies it.

I-27-2 The Council of Ministers appoints Commissioners. Parliament has no say. There is no democratic process in the Commission, which is a dictatorship. Only the Commission may propose legislation, Parliament's function is merely to approve the Commission's legislation.

The EU Parliament, (the only vote we will have left,) is a sham.

I-33 EU laws, decisions and regulations are binding on member states.

I-41 Confirms yet again the EU's powers over defence / armed forces policy.

I-41-3 Each nation is to build up its armed forces. They clearly want the EU to be a military power.

I-43 The EU has the power to mobilise the military assets of all States if it declares an emergency.

I-46-4 "The principal of representative democracy" "Political parties at the European level contribute to EU political awareness and express the wishes of citizens." It's the end for the Lib-Lab-Con, who will be replaced by EU wide parties with names like Party of European Socialists (PES), and European Peoples Party (EPP).

I-47 EU institutions shall decide what are appropriate means for exchanging their views with the public.

I-47-4 Petitions: One million citizens from many countries (ie with difficulty) may merely invite the Commission to propose that the Constitution be implemented. ie, we can only agree. Soviet style.

I-50. Only the Council sometimes, and Parliament, shall meet in public. (All others meet in secret.)

I-50-3 The right of our access to EU documents, and the right of the EU to limit our access.

I-53-7 "The EU shall counter internal fraud" It protects and fosters fraud! It breaks its own Constitution!

I-59-3 If there is just a "clear risk" of a State breaching I-2 (Human rights), the EU can suspend that State's rights (including voting), but its obligations to the EU remain. (Designed for abuse!)

I-60 "Any State may decide to withdraw from the EU". But terms will be decided by the Council (they keep our oil, fishing, currency reserves, armed forces and nukes?). Requires agreement by the EU Parliament. Article III-325 3 puts more steps in the way. A qualified majority is 72% of the Council. Article I-58 to rejoin.

In summary, the Constitution starts with human rights platitudes; it then conceals its destruction of democracy in its massive 465 pages; while the EU's Corpus Juris legal system steals our rights. It is a police state, the European "Soviet" Union, but with much stricter regulation. The EU becomes our nation, and as a result Britain is abolished as a nation.

We can only avoid this by repealing the 1973 EU Communities Act before we are imprisoned inside.
